Freelancer.com scoops the 19th Annual Webby Awards, taking out four awards including Best Employment Website, Best Professional Services Website and the People's Voice in both categories

Freelancer.com achieves yet another landmark: winning four Webby Awards from the world's leading award-giving body honoring excellence in the Internet and business.

SYDNEY: April 28th, 2015 – Freelancer has been recognised as the leading website in both the Employment category and the Professional Services category by a jury from the International Academy of Digital Arts & Sciences (IADAS) — a 1,000+ member judging body. In addition to being recognised twice by the jury, Freelancer also won two People's Voice Awards - one for each of the Employment and Professional Services categories.

The Webby Awards is the Internet's most respected symbol of success. The 19th Annual Webby Awards received nearly 13,000 entries over 60 countries worldwide. Over 500,000 people voted for the People's Voice Awards from over 200 countries and territories worldwide. Freelancer has won four Webby Awards in the past, bringing its total to eight - a massive achievement for the company and its 15 million users.

The winners are chosen by the International Academy of Digital Arts & Sciences, a global organization whose members include Tumblr founder David Karp, New York City Chief Digital Officer Rachel Sterne, Laughing Squid founder Scott Beale, CEO of Rovio Mikael Hed, co-founder of Instagram Kevin Systrom, Martha Stewart, Huffington Post Media Group President Arianna Huffington, Twitter co-founder Biz Stone, musician David Bowie, Internet co-creator Vint Cerf and Virgin Group Chairman Richard Branson.

In addition, on 23rd of April, the company also won Silver for Company of the Year (Internet/New Media category) in the second annual Asia-Pacific Stevie Awards, the only awards program to recognize achievement in business throughout the entire Asia-Pacific region. Nominations of more than 300 organizations were considered by the judges this year. More than 60 executives around the world participated in the judging to determine the Stevie Award winners. The region's premier business awards are open to all organizations in the 22 Asia-Pacific nations.

"These recent achievements would not have been possible without the support from our millions of professionals, who continuously inspire our company to persevere in its mission to positively change the lives of a billion people from all over the world," says Matt Barrie, Freelancer.com CEO and Chairman.

The 19th Annual Webby Awards and the 2nd Annual Asia-Pacific Stevie Awards will be presented in New York on May 18 and Shanghai (June 5), respectively.
